OWNERSHIP

What "owning your platform" actually means

It's not just about where your website lives.

Ownership is not:

- Paying for hosting
- Having a custom domain
- Using a "professional" tool

These are table stakes, not ownership.

Ownership is:

Access to your own data, anytime

The ability to leave without starting over

Control over how your business works

The real test:

> If your platform disappeared tomorrow, what would you lose?

Your content? Your members? Your revenue history? Your integrations?

Why this matters:

Platforms change. Companies get acquired. Pricing shifts. Features disappear.

> Ownership isn't paranoia. It's planning.

The question to ask:

"What can I take with me if I need to leave?"

If the answer is "not much," you don't own your platform. You rent it.
