The 3 questions to ask before building a membership site

Most people start with "What platform should I use?"

That's the wrong first question.

1

Who is this actually for?

Not "everyone interested in my topic."

One specific person with a specific problem they'd pay to solve.

2

What will they get that they can't get elsewhere?

Access to you isn't enough.

What transformation, outcome, or ongoing value justifies a recurring commitment?

3

Can I sustain this?

A membership is a promise you keep making.

Before you build, ask: Can I show up for this in month 14? Month 40?

The platform comes last.

The right answers to these questions will tell you what to build — and sometimes, what not to.
