MEMBERSHIP TIPS

Pricing your membership

What I've learned from watching thousands of sites.

Paid Memberships Pro

1

Most people price too low.

Not because they're generous. Because they're scared.

Underpricing attracts price-sensitive members who churn first.

2

Price based on value, not hours.

Your members aren't paying for your time. They're paying for a result, access, or transformation.

What's that worth to them?

3

Simple pricing converts better.

One tier with a clear promise outperforms three tiers with confusing differences.

Complexity creates hesitation. Hesitation kills signups.

4

Annual plans improve retention.

Not because they trap people. Because they shift the decision from "should I stay this month?" to "is this worth my year?"

That's a better question.

5

You can always change it.

Your first price isn't permanent. Early members understand you're figuring it out.

Start somewhere. Learn. Adjust.

Pricing is a conversation, not a calculation.

Watch what people do. Listen to what they say. Adjust based on both.
