

CASE STUDY

He calls himself “non-tech” and built a course

A German teacher launched a paid membership site with no coding background.

SWIPE →

THE GOAL

From podcast to paid course.

Christian Leuschner wanted to earn from the listeners who loved his German podcast and wanted material to learn the language faster.

WHAT HELPED

The docs did the work.

He taught himself with step-by-step articles and screenshots. In his words: "If I can do it then everybody can."

THE METHOD

Teach with a story.

Students follow a continuing story with realistic dialogue, drama, and humor, paired with video, podcasts, flashcards, and quizzes.

THE APPROACH

Hire out the hard parts.

For the work he could not do himself, Christian brought in voice actors, designers, and editors while the membership ran on PMPro.

IN HIS WORDS

“There were many helpful articles with step-by-step explanations and screenshots. If I can do it then everybody can.”

Christian Leuschner, German Stories

Read the full case study →